To whom it may concern,

The amount of self-harm and suicidal statistics is alarming.

Funding from the government must increase for counselling services for children and their families.

There are core values missing here which are innocence, love, respect, moral codes and compassion. There also needs to be more protection and laws against cyber bullying.

The missing link in Australian culture is a belief system and a shared sense of oneness with others. The devastating effect of alcohol and drugs is what is replacing this underlying affinity, a spiritual emergency calling as such.

Australian culture must change!!! Let's lessen the imbedded cultural/attitude of Aussie Aussie ohy ohy!!!!

Instead let's get some sporting events and the media advertising the devastating effects of alcohol, drugs and bullying in a very confronting and non-nonsense way.

This is not cool, it's cruel and destroying so many, lost souls lives.

Yours truly,
